Chair Cane and Hand Cane Kits

Natural Strand Cane

Natural strand cane or chair cane, as it is commonly called, is made from the outside bark of rattan (a tropical vine). This bark or peel is cut by machine to various widths for use in cane - seating. Note: This cane is used only with those chairs having holes drilled around the seat frame.

Craft Note: When measuring your seat for proper cane size, measure the diameter of the holes (Y) first. Then measure the holes from center-to-center (X). The center-to-center dimension is the most important. Refer to the table below. If you are unable to determine between two sizes, it is always best to choose the smaller of the two. We recommend the book Restoring Hand Cane Seats: Order Number: B0109 found in the book section of this catalog.

Full Hank - 1000 ft

1/3 Hank - 330 ft

Note: 1/3 Hank will cane an approximate 14" x 16" seat

Reed Spline

When in doubt about size, send a sample of the spline from the chair

Removing Old Reed Spline

Fill a squeeze bottle with a solution of 50% white vinegar and 50% water. Carefully, drop a bead of solution on the spline next to the inner edge of the groove. Allow the solution to soak at least 2 hours; keeping the spline wet during the 2 hours. Newer chairs may take 4 or more hours of soaking. Soaking the spline before removing helps to soften the glue and makes the removal of the spline easier and saves time.

your time and rock the spline chisel from side to side, prying the spline out of the groove.

Use sandpaper or a wood file to smooth the sharp edge on the inside of the seat frame. This will prevent the edge from cutting the cane webbing during use.

Use a sponge or damp cloth to clean away water, old glue, pieces of cane and dirt from the chair. The chair is now ready to re-cane. (For more detail, see our booklet Restoring Press Cane Seats on page 5)

After the spline has soaked for at least 2 hours, carefully start prying the spline out. Start at the point where the ends of the spline meet. Pry the spline out with a caning awl or ice pick. When there is enough room, use a spline chisel. Take

Fibre Rush & Natural Rush

Fibre Rush - Fibre rush is a very durable, one-ply, twisted paper, made to resemble real twisted bull rushes. There is no collecting, drying, soaking, flattening or twisting required, as in natural rush; thus saving hours of work.

What Color is Best - Kraft brown and light kraft are best for most chair seats. The light kraft allows you to stain with a greater range of colors. The white colored rush can be dyed with our water soluble dyes.

Sizing Up Your Chair

*To Determine the size of rush used in your chair, measure the number of strands per inch in your existing chair. All sizes vary a little.	Size	Dia.	*Approx. Strands/Inch	Approx Feet/Pound
	#4	1/8"	8	255
	#5	5/32"	6	210
	#6	3/16"	5	145
	#7	7/32"	4	138
	#8	1/4"	4	132
	#10	3/8"	3	60

How Much To Order

All rush is guaranteed to vary slightly in size, from order to order, due to twist variations. All colors are guaranteed to vary from order to order. All rush texture will vary from order to order, so it is important to order enough rush to complete your entire project. A typical seat measuring 14" x 14" takes about two lbs.

One 35-40 pound spool will do about 11 to 17 chair seats. Color is consistent throughout the spool.

One 2 Pound coil is enough to do one average chair seat with approximate dim. of 14" x 14".

Natural Rush - Natural, hand-twisted, sea grass rush is a great substitute for doing traditional rush seating. It is in its natural green color, but will turn brown with age. Since this is twisted by hand, there may be variations in the diameter along the cordage. Put up in coils weighing approximately 2 1/4 pounds each. One coil will do a seat measuring approximately 12" x 14".

Glycerin

Used in hand caning, press caning, and basketry, it acts as a wetting and softening agent. Strand cane, webbing and reeds stay wetter and more flexible longer. It can make a real difference in areas where the water is hard. It is 99.9% pure USDA clear food grade glycerin. Just one teaspoon per gallon of water is required.

Order Number: GLY-BOT (4 oz. bottles)...$2.49 each - $1.86 each for 12+

Caning Tool

In caning, at each intersection, the cane must be adjusted four times. Doing this task with pegs requires a high level of manual dexterity, and can be fatiguing to fingers and hands. This tool accomplishes the same task, more easily, and causes less fatigue.

Shaker Tape, Flat, and Flat Oval Reeds

Flat and Flat Oval Reed

Flat and flat oval reeds are made from the core of first-quality rattan. Because these reeds are easily worked when soaked in water, they are used for a wide variety of purposes. They are used in seat weaving, using the herringbone pattern, and for high quality baskets and wicker furniture. These reeds are put up into one pound coils as pictured.

Shaker Tape
Shaker tape is a cloth tape used for seating on Shaker furniture that has advantages over other weaving materials because it is more flexible and resilient. It comes in 1" widths. To figure out how much yardage of tape you will need, measure (inches) the length of the front rail and the length of a side rail and multiply them together. Then divide the result by 9. If the chair seat is 15" x 14 it will take about 25 yards of tape to do the seat.

Half Round Reed

Half Round reed should not be confused with Flat Oval reed. Half Round reeds are more rigid and are used mostly in basketry as rims and handles; also as a weaver in seats and backs of wicker furniture. Half Rounds will not work well for wrapping legs of wicker furniture.

Sizes 4, 5, 6, 7, and 8 are popular for spokes or ribs in basketry and wicker furniture. Remember to choose a weaver smaller than the spokes

Rattan Rings
Rings made of rattan are sturdier than wood handles. A very popular material for various other basketry projects, macramé, and purses. Unlike wood hoops, they can easily be drilled into. They are the only ring that can be reshaped to oval, by forcing a smaller ring over the larger ring, after soaking it in water.

Rattan Poles without skin

The rattan bark—or skin—is removed by machine and the pole sanded to produce a smooth surface. The wood is a pale sand color. Wood dyes and finishes are easily applied. Skinless rattan is most often used for wicker furniture, curtain rods and even picture frames.

Bamboo Planks

Bamboo planks are cut to a uniform width, their entire length. They are approx. 1/4" to 5/16" thick and all planks are 8' long. The BPF2-8T planks are specifically selected because they run towards the thicker dimension. They are useful for a wide variety of purposes. For ease of shipping, we can cut planks to length as we do bamboo poles.

These poles are cut from the root of the bamboo plant. They are blonde in color and more flexible than regular bamboo. Wangi can be bent and curved into shapes, or used straight.
